Dear Nor,

It certainly was great to see all of you during our quick trip to San Diego. You were nice to come to my talk. Pat certainly appreciated the use of your car during her stay.

Since returning, I've looked into the case of [redacted] who wants to be employed by the CIA. We've been in contact with him since the fall of 1975. He has been interviewed by various parts of our organization and I have to say in all candor that he doesn't come across as the type of person that we want. He does have good academic credentials, but he has not been impressive in the depth and logic of his responses under questioning. I appreciate your passing the data on him to me. I think we've given him a fair look and just don't feel that he fits our needs.

We were sorry to hear that Anne and Mike are not going to come east to see us this summer. We hope they'll do it another time.

All the best from both of us.

Yours,

STANSFIELD TURNER

Captain Norval R. Richardson, U.S. Navy (Ret.)
